W. Carter's residence, corner of South Broad and Montgomery streets, Wednesday, morning, and returned somewhat abruptly with two pairs of castors and a beaver hat. The ingenuous Brown has been prevailed upon to board at the jail for the next few weeks— Up to Wednesday morning Savannah had contributed $1,156 to Sorrevport's Yellow Jack Fund. The Board of County Commissioners held their regular monthly meeting on Wednesday.——On Wednesday $120,000 was received by one Savannah cotton house, and $60,000 by another. Cotton sales foot up 1,500 bales, the largest day of the season. Business rapidly brightening.—Rev. E Heidt has recovered his horse, and captured the negro thief. A white man named Moore is implicated. Wednesday afternoon, a seaman named Lewis Gilbert belonging to the brig G. F. Geery, was assisting in unloading his vessel, when a bale of gunnybagging fell upon his head, and injured him so severely that he died that afternoon.—Advertiser and Republican

CARTERSVILLE.

For several days past a very interesting meeting has been going on in the Baptist Church in Cartersville. General W. P. Wofford, Frances Fontain and M. S. Eaves have bought the "Buford Place," eight miles north of Cartersville, and are erecting an iron furnace.——They had an excitement in Cartersville last Monday, in which a horse belonging to Messrs. Patillo, Baker & Co. bore a prominent part. The dray which was attached to him, has gone to the place where all drays go after they have been dashed against a couple of gas lamps a postoffice, and a railroad track.——Weather cool.——All the cotton around here open and ready for picking.—Standard and Express.

King and Miss Josie Jay, both of Greensboro.——The first frost of the season, and a heavy one, showed itself in Madison on Tuesday last.——Died on Monday night last, at the residence of her husband, near Smyrna, in this county Mrs. Peck, wife of Rev. COVINGTON.

Light frost here Tuesday and Wednesday mornings.——A large number of Covington agriculturalists will attend the State Fair. A company is being made up to go in wagons through the country.——A Covington young man packed his Saratoga on last Friday morning and left for parts unknown. The cause of his leaving so suddenly is attributed to the fact that he had not played his cards "wisely, but too well." He carried a cabinet shop and a small jewelry establishment with him.——A gentleman and his wife were visiting in this county, the other night, and returned sooner than was expected, as they passed the parlor window they heard the voice of their eldest daughter exclaiming, "Now, Willie, don't; just see how you have mussed my hair, and shaked my lip with that pomade on your mustache." About this time Willie heard the old man's step, and he don'ted.—Enterprise.

The Proposed Amendment to the Constitution in Regard to the Mode of Electing President.

Senators Morton, of Indiana, Carpenter of Wisconsin, Anthony of Rhode Island, and Bayard of Delaware, members of the Committee on Privileges and Elections of the Senate of the United States, closed their conference which has been continued from day to day for the past week in this city, in reference to the mode of electing President. Their deliberations thus far involved the following:

1. To abolish electoral colleges.
2. That the President and Vice President be elected by the people voting directly for candidates.
3. That each State shall be divided into as many districts as the State is entitled to Representatives in Congress, to be composed of contiguous territory, compact in form and as nearly equal in population as may be. The person having the highest number of votes for President in each district shall receive the vote of that district, which shall count one Presidential vote; that each State shall be entitled to two Presidential votes at large, which shall be counted for the person receiving the highest number of votes in the State.
4. The person having the highest number of such Presidential votes shall be President.
5. These provisions to be applicable to the election of Vice President.
6. Congress shall have power to provide for conducting the election of President and to establish tribunals for the decision of contests as to the vote in any district or State, and make regulations governing the proceedings of these tribunals.

By the adoption of the district system of voting by the people directly for candidates, with two Presidential votes in each State, and plurality rule for determining the result of the election, it is brought as nearly to the people as it can be, not to make it an election by the nation as one community, and it still recognizes the States as such, while it enables the people of each district in a State to express their will; so, hereafter, a State need not cast a solid vote, as under the present system. It tends to dispense with conventions, which are now necessary to form an electoral ticket for each State, and it enlarges the liberty of the individual voter, who can vote for any citizen for President and Vice he may select. The election will always be final, and there can be no necessity for an election by the House of Representatives, which is so objected to. The plurality rule has been adopted successfully in all States in the Union, except four, in the election of State officers, and it generally prevails in the election of members of Congress. In none of the States where it has been tried is there any thought of abandoning it. Other questions are considered in connection with the votes in the States and districts, and providing for the contingency of death or resignation of the President after election and before inauguration. These are suggestions which have been considered, but of course no conclusion could be arrived at.

THE PESTILENCE.

HORRIBLE STATE OF AFFAIRS IN MEMPHIS.

MEMPHIS, October 10.—The affairs of the city are deplorable. The people die faster than they can be buried. Hundreds have died unattended. Stench from neglected bodies intolerable. SHREVEPORT, October 10.—The nurses of Jaron Wiltzes and Maple Morses, from New Orleans are charged with robbing the corpses. The people are greatly enraged. The chief victim is the dead priest, from whom it is alleged they took clothing, money, a watch and crucifix. There is no improvement. The new cases are mostly among children. There are 400 cases under treatment. The fever is at Mansfield, forty miles hence. Physicians advise absentees to stay away.

The Count de Chambord has left Frosdorf. His destination is unknown.

Grevy, formerly President of the Assembly will soon publish a letter declaring in favor of the Republic.

LONDON, October 10.—The Carlists profess to have received information that their General Otto, on the 6th defeated and routed the army of General Moriones near Ciraupi, and compelled it to retreat to Puente La Regna, 13 miles southwest of Pompeluna, leaving behind a large number of dead and wounded. Dr. Calhoun's Liver Pills.

I AM engaged in the Manufacture of the Celebrated Family Medicine, known as the Calhoun Liver and Anti-Bilious Pills, under the supervision and assistance of Dr. Calhoun himself. This Pill has been in use for the last thirty-five years, and has taken precedence over all other Family Preparations, by all that have used them. Thousands would certify to their great value if necessary. One fact should supersede any amount of certificates, and that fact is this: Dr. Calhoun has been physician to the Fulton County Prison for over seven years, when the number of prisoners ranged from 30 to 70, laboring under all the diseases incident to this climate. With but few exceptions, they have all been treated with this Pill, and astonishing to say, during that long period not a solitary death occurred under his treatment. This fact is worth any amount of testimonials.

I am now prepared to fill orders from Druggists, Merchants and others. All orders sent me shall receive prompt attention. There is no type of FEVER, DYSPEPSIA, DIARRHŒA, BYSENTERY, RHEUMATISM, CHOLERA MORBUS, BILLIOUSNESS and SICK HEADACHE, or other diseases of a southern climate, but yields readily to this preparation.

For sale by all druggists.
Price 50 cents a Box.

Apropos of the London daily press and the Tichborne case, the Saturday Review preaches against "descriptive reporting." It objects to "the new view of courts of law as a sort of great manufactory of interesting matter for the newspapers;" but it fails to tell us why the public should be debarred from the intelligence about great trials, when, as in England and America, all courts are theoretically open.

Donn Piatt tells the following story concerning the great Michigander, Senator Chandler: "While making his grand tour of Europe he encountered our friend General LeFevre, then United States Consul at Nuremburg. The conversation turning on bills presented by landlords, the Senator said he could not complain. His bills, compared to those he had to pay in Washington, were reasonable enough. 'But there is one thing puzzles me,' he continued; 'wherever I go, if but for one night, I am charged with a buggy. Now, the charge is low enough if I ever had the buggy, but I haven't seen a buggy since I left the States.' Our consul was bothered. He asked at last to look at the bill, and found the learned Senator had mistaken the French word 'bougie' (a candle) for the honest American one, 'buggy.'"

Interest on Deposits.

We are willing, enough to lay the panic at the doors of the stock gamblers; and yet we are to a certain extent responsible for the fearful gambling in stocks that has been carried on since the war. We furnished the money on which those transactions were based, and we did it deliberately, and cannot, therefore shirk the responsibility. Are you incredulous? We will attempt to make it as plain as the nose on your face.

We place our current deposits with a banker at home, and we expect him to pay interest on our balances; we demand it, in short, and the demand must be granted or we will take our money to the bank around the corner where they do pay such interest. Mark well the point—we force our banker to pay interest on current deposits.

If the bank pays interest on the money, it can not afford to let it be idle—the money must earn whatever interest is paid out. The bank first loans at home all but its essential reserve fund. If there commands a higher rate of interest than it would in New York; but a prudent banker reserves a portion of his currency that he dare not lend at home, because in case of general trouble, he could not call it instantly in. For the protection of himself and his depositors he is compelled to retain a reserve upon which we are compelling him to pay interest. How has he heretofore managed to make it earn interest and yet be instantly available? He sends it to his New York correspondent, whom he compels to pay the interest that his customers require at home. He does not send it to those solid institutions of New York that do not pay interest—not he. We won't let him. The returns of August 23d showed that the Chemical Bank had less than five millions of deposits, and the Bank of Commerce only about eight millions, while the Fourth National Bank held twenty-two and a half millions, and the Park Bank twenty-one millions. The two last named pay interest on deposits, which are chiefly the money of provincial bankers.

Those banks, and such private bankers as Jay Cooke & Co., Fisk, Hatch & Co., and Henry Clewes, must loan our money in turn, and who do they lend it to? They lend it to brokers on stocks. The bank does not care whether the broker has means or not; the only question is whether the stock deposited is a fair security for the loan. In calm weather it is, for the stock can be sold on the street at any time, and the country banker's reserve is thus always at his command. But when stocks tumble headlong, wiping out the bank's margin in a day, and upon which nothing whatever can for a time be realized, how stands the availability of the rural reserves? New York in such a case suspends, and the interest-bearing money which constitutes the home reserve, and which has been sent away to be loaned out to stock gamblers, is locked up; and the home bank, deprived of it, cannot pay its depositors, and the well known drama of suspension, stagnation and trouble is enacted all over the land.

The payment of interest on deposits thus results in a robbery of the country for the support of the stock gamblers. There is a remedy, and that remedy should come in the shape of rigid statutes that prohibit the payment of interest on current deposits at home, or by the bank in New York. Reports of the amount actually "on hand" should be made; and then let confidence be placed where it belongs, as it assuredly will be, if the pernicious practice of paying interest on current deposits is stopped by the heavy hand of the law.

For Shreveport and Memphis.

Our telegrams from these stricken cities show no abatement in the fearful ravages of the fell destroyer. In Memphis the condition is simply horrible. The dead can't be buried, and the bodies of the victims are filling the air with pollution. So says the telegraph.

Harmony Secured.

It is with great satisfaction that THE CONSTITUTION congratulates the people of Atlanta upon the complete harmonizing of the late differences in the Democratic ranks, for it secures the election of good men for the municipal government of the city next year, if the people will only be true to themselves. We yesterday conversed with leading Democrats, who strongly urged the Delegate system, Col. R. F. Maddox, Col. L. P. Grant, Messrs. O. H. Jones, Garrett and others, who all enter heartily upon the plan adopted. Col. Marcus A. Bell, who has been very earnest in his efforts to secure the delegate system, is also warmly in favor of perfect harmony upon the settlement made at the mass meeting. Indeed, there are now no differences of opinion existing as to the nomination on the 25th; and we urge all good citizens to ceaseless activity in the endeavor to secure the election of suitable candidates.

The resolutions adopted provided for lists of voters, and we trust that every effort will be made to have a fair nomination. Let good feeling continue to prevail, and a good ticket can be selected, representing the varied interests of the city. Let our citizens prove true to duty, and the result will be the general welfare.

☞ "Yes, Jones, it was a trying time when one thinks of it aright—a great city going to destruction on account of its excessive wickedness."

"Oh, I don't know, Smith—not worse, I suppose, than the burning of Chicago or Boston."

"Not worse! Why, Jones, suppose you had been Lot and your wife had turned to a pillar of salt—what would you have done?"

"Wore widower's weeds a few weeks and then got a fresh one, of course," was the unfeeling reply.

The New Fiscal Agents of the State Department in Europe.

WASHINGTON, October 7.—The appointment of Morton, Rose & Co. as fiscal agents in London of the Department of State was was made by Secretary Fish some days ago with the approbation of President Grant. The Secretary telegraphed the fact to Minister Schenck, through whom the other Ministers in Europe were informed of the change, so they might not, as formerly, draw upon Clews, Habicht & Co. for their quarter's salary due in October, but upon their successors, who will also protect all drafts drawn for accounts of the State Department.

A Theatrical Trifle.

An amusing little vandeville is just now a favorite in Paris. It is called "The Unicorn," and has two characters. A play-writer is making a holiday tour in Switzerland. In one of the little hotels of the country he meets a pretty girl, to whom, the place being crowded, he offers the half of his breakfast and chamber. Together they make an omelette; the vandevillist becomes a little too familiar; the lady tells him her husband is coming. It is only a trick of hers, and the clever Raoul is got to be taken in. Presently he talks to her about his profession.

"Don't you think," says he, "that this would make a very pleasant little vandeville?"

"Yes, certainly. But what shall we call the piece?"

A score of ideas present themselves, but nothing to the purpose.

Bah!" says Raoul, "what is the name of this hotel?"

They ring for the waiter.

"The Unicorn," says he.

"Good! Our play shall be called 'the Unicorn.'"

One yellow fever death in Mobile on Tuesday. The last one in Montgomery occurred on Friday night—that of Mr. Putnam Larkins.

A gentleman coming on the train from Montgomery, on learning at Beech Creek that he would not be allowed to come into Selma, jumped off the train and walked into the city. He couldn't see the quarrantine.

Montgomery Advertiser, 9th inst: Yesterday was emphatically a dull day. But little business of any sort was transacted and very few people were in town. It is to be hoped that the cool weather will entirely dissipate all the yellow fever and restore the city to its accustomed life and activity.

The Opelika Locomotive gives the following Grange information: Mr. Gordon, one of Gen. Law's deputies, organized last Monday, a large and enthusiastic Grange at Oak Bowery. The Due West Colleges have opened with large numbers of pupils, and it is expected the present year will be more successful than last. The price of cotton will interfere materially with the cause of education, but the rates of tuition and board at Due West are so low as to place an education within the reach of all.

The board of trustees of the South Carolina University met at the Governor's office and transacted the following business: The resignation of Professor Rivers was accepted and Mr. Fish P. Brower elected in his stead. Professor R. W. Barnwell was relieved and Professor Roberts in his stead, and Mr. Wm. Main elected to the chair of Professor Roberts. Professor Faber was removed and his chair left vacant for the present. Some of the faculty attended the meeting of the board and gave their views on the curriculum of study, after which the board adjourned.

THE BAND OF THE VELVET CAP.

A Criminal Phase of Paris Life.

Paris has been enlivened recently by a real reminder of such romances as Balzac's "Band of Thirteen," and Feval's "Gentleman in Black," not to mention such co-operative associations as the Jesuits' society, depicted by Eugene Sue in the "Wandering Jew," and the secret company in Dumas' last piece, "La Femme de Claude." The Velvet Cap Gang (Bande des Casquettes des Velours) appears to have consisted of seven members, six boys and a girl named Mathey, of whom the leader, Gelinier (or Geligaer, as the Figaro has it,) seems to have been a monster of romantic depravity, and given to the pretence of terrible crimes he had never committed, though he committed enough to send him to the house (of correction for twenty years. Two others, Mouret and Gouzay, were sentenced to fifteen years' penal servitude; one (Renault) passes ten years in prison; three, including the girl, were acquitted for want of evidence.

The correspondent of the Pall Mall Gazette, writing under date of August 28—two days after the sentence gives a resume of the facts, from which it appears that when the leader of the band, a boy of fifteen, was arrested, he confessed coolly to having committed seventeen murders, and his associates, helping up this good joke, gave the examining magistrates and police an amount of worry, and Paris in general an amount of horror, which rivalled the most palmy days of the exploits of Trauptmann. Every time a corpse was fished out of the Seine with marks of violence on it, Gelinier and his friends were taken to the Morgue to see it, and there they would declare with one accord, and a dramatic display of remorse which proved them to be capital actors, that it was one of their victims. When questioned apart each, of course, gave a different version of the story; but it was not until they had hoaxed the judge six times with confessions of murder that he refused to believe a word more of the matter; seeing which they avowed, as if in shame at being such paltry criminals, that they had done nothing more than die. Even then, however, their one idea was to magnify their deeds; and the practice of putting moutons—that is, spy prisoners—in the cells of prisoners awaiting trial, gave them endless opportunities for starting justice on false scents. One of them who had been imprisoned before for theft, gave a circumstantial account of having called to thank the barrister who had defended him, and of having robbed that learned gentleman of a pocket-book containing 34,000 francs. Another made minute statements concerning three jewel robberies in the Palais Royal, and Gelinier himself sent the police digging holes in all the plains around Paris to recover large sums of money which he professed to have buried. The expense, trouble and absurdity connected with the examination of prisoners in private were never so ludicrously illustrated as in this case. A gang of vicious boys fairly made sport of the authorities, driving the judge into fits of exasperation, which must have stamped the last six months pretty indelibly on his memory. Gelinier alone was examined one hundred and seventy-five times, and the upshot of this huge mystification was that seven lads and one girl were indicted for fifteen different thefts and burglaries, all of the most vulgar and insignificant kind.

"Gelinier," says the Pall Mall Gazette, "is the son of a concierge, and picked up a great number of acquaintances by serving as assistant to a surgeon at the head of an ambulance during the siege. Mouret' lieutenant of the gang, had a free footing in a dozen large workshops, and begun early as a pickpocket. Renault, who is eighteen, received a good education and turned billiard marker. Touzard, aged twenty-four, was a clerk at the Ministry of Finance; he had a very good education, took his degree as B. A. and licentiate, and having resigned a clerkship became a professor in a state lycee, and afterwards private tutor in several respectable houses, from all of which, however, he was expelled for his immorality. David is a cousin to one of the members of the Government of the National Defense, and, like Tonzard, is well educated and held a post under government. The other two lads, though born of poor parents, have been well taught, and are extremely intelligent, and the girl Mathey is pretty, and has the knack of assuming every variety of disguise, from that of a respectable matron to that of a simple and innocent country damsel. The band was thus organized according to all rules and precedents, gentry and plebians being alike represented. Each member brought information as to the means of persons in his own particular circle, the plans of their premises, etc And the others went to work on these indications taking care not to compromise the informant. The brotherhood flourished for about a twelvemonth in this manner. They had a code of laws, and they used to meet in the gardens of the Palais Royal. In short, as Gelinier acknowledged, the tried to follow to the letter all the rules laid down by those educators of the people, sensational novelists 'I was schooled by novels,' said Gelinier, and he and Jacqua, the better to carry on their depredations, had offered their services to the police as indicateurs (commissioned spies) and their services had been accepted. Gelinier went in and ont of the Rue Jerusalem as he pleased; Jacqua had a license as a hawker, mountebank and fortune-teller; and the pair of them might have exercised their double callings for a good while longer had they not aroused the suspicions of the police by supplying information which always proved false.

The correspondent of the Independence Belge devotes two long letters to the deeds of this gang, while the Figaro, Paris, after exhausting the prose aspect of the subject, prints a philosophical poem which it pretends to have received in the handwriting of Gelinier, but the genuineness of which is as doubtful as that of some of Gelinier's murders.

☞ A private letter just received from Cairo, Ill., assures us that there have been nine deaths from genuine yellow fever in that city, and that there are now fifteen or twenty cases. The disease is in a comparatively mild form, being modified, it is supposed, by the climate, but those who died exhibited cases of real black vomit. A case of yellow fever was never before heard of in Cairo. Two deaths from the same cause had also occurred at Metropolis, a town on the Ohio River, forty miles above Cairo.

☞ George Sand, says gossip, is about ending her days in a convent, and this may explain her presence at a few pilgrimages lately, as well as her recently declared disgust with the world and its workings. "I have been in error all my life," she says. "No living writer has made more mistakes." She is near the three-score years and ten.

THE MAMMOTH BALLOON FAILURE.

Full Particulars of the Voyage and Descent.

The transatlantic balloon that was to sail so deliciously across the wide, wide ocean, went up, after some hard struggling, yesterday morning, at nineteen minutes past nine o'clock. The starting scene was, as usual, at the Capotiline grounds, and aerostat was the same old bag, but somewhat diminished in size, that Professor Wise pronounced unfit for any expedition, badly constructed and rotten from the weather. Although the mammoth gas bag was partially repaired and improved in its arrangements, so that some sort of an ascension became feasible, the affair irked to remain upon the earth a while, and then fell prostrate again, a complete failure. Of course, it was altogether too stormy yesterday, and there are other excuses to be given why the sixty-hour trip across the ocean could not be made just now. After rising the balloon sailed due east, and afterwards in a northerly direction, until at last she faded entirely out of sight. Carrier-pigeons were kept in the balloon, and dispatches were sent by them to tell the whereabouts of the aeronauts.

First Pigeon—Ten o'clock, A. M. Rye, Westchester county. "A balloon has just passed over this place." Second Pigeon—Bethel, Conn.—"The gasbag is coming on the trip this way." Third Pigeon's Story—Bridgeport, Conn., October 7, 11 A. M.—"The balloon has just passed over this city." Fourth Pigeon—New Haven, Conn., October 6, 11:40 A. M.—The balloon has just passed five miles northwest of this city." Fifth Pigeon—"In the clouds," 10:05 A. M.—"We are all very happy. Donaldson is dreaming and Lunt is fixing his ballast." Sixth Pigeon—Waterbury, 2 P. M.—"At a quarter past one P. M. the balloon passed over the Land of Canaan, Conn, and at twenty-five minutes past 1 P. M. the bag descended and the cats jumped out of it."

The last pigeon that brought a dispatch was an unlucky bird from New Canaan, Connecticut. It was dated October 6—3 P. M.—"The storm has arisen. We have met with a terrible disaster. We fell on the farm of Mr. Charles Lewis, at North Canaan, Litchfield county, Connecticut, at a quarter past one o'clock." It appears the balloon was trying to cross a medium sized hill in the above locality and began to hug the big trees and knock its uncouth appendages against the projecting rocks, to the great danger of the voyagers' limbs, who were then shivering and shaking from the wind and rain in the nonsensical old bag. Then Mr. Donaldson said "he did not know what to do," whereupon Mr. Lunt suggested "to open the valve and let the gas out of her." They were then shaken by a gush of wind, and so violently that the good people of Canaan could not understand where the screaming came from. Donaldson then said, "Let us all jump out." The bag was only thirty feet from the ground, and soon after only twenty feet above ground. Lunt jumped into a tree and fell down through the branches upon the rocks beneath. Donaldson and Mr. Ford jumped out simultaneously. The dispatch further describes Mr. Lunt's critical position in the air, sweeping the cobwebs of the sky and asking Donaldson for assistance. Then Mr. Ford says, bewailingly yet resignedly, "I am sorry about the pigeons. I hope the balloon will be found. We will write up the account of the voyage to-night and bring it down in the morning. P. S.—The balloon has been found a mile from here." Such is the story, mystery and curious train of circumstances which attended the tragic balloon ascension yesterday. The bag has burst once more and for the last time. The next time an ascension is being tried better preparations will, of course, be made, and it is hoped the weather will be more favorable and pleasant. The balloon will then surely then take an ocean bound course, and without doubt will cross the Atlantic in sixty hours. It will be very nice, indeed.

MISSIONARY ADDRESSES IN THE ALLIANCE—THE MONEY SITUATION IMPROVING.

NEW YORK, October 10.—A large audience assembled in Mac'son Square Church this afternoon, to listen to addresses upon missionary work of the various missionaries in attendance upon the Alliance. Rev. Dr. Anderson, of Boston, President. Addresses were made by Revs. Jessup, of Syria, Lansing, of Tyre, Gibson, of China, Talmage, of Amoy, China, Edin, of Japan, Bliss, of Turkey, Laborre, of Persia, Kalopotnake, of Greece, Doolittle, of China, Grant, of South Africa, Smith, of Ceylon, McFarland, of Siam, Carpenter, of British Brarmal, and York, of Madeiras.

The exercises closed by the congregation singing "All Hail the Power of Jesus name," the last verse being sung in all the various languages represented by the missionaries and congregation in England.

Mr. Camp, President of the Clearing House Association, stated to-day that financial matters were becoming brighter; the banks are gaining rapidly in greenbacks, and confidence is being speedily restored. The banks he says, have paid and are paying more currency than ever, and all demands for legitimate business purposes are being supplied. The loan certificates outstanding amount to about $20,000,000, and are being cancelled as rapidly as the general welfare will admit of. Mr. Camp is of opinion that a speedy cancellation of loan certificates would be disastrous. He hoped they would all be retired at the latest by the first of November, the date originally agreed upon, but if, at the expiration of that time, the associated banks concluded that the public welfare demanded a continuance of loan certificates, the present policy would be adhered to. The banks have as yet taken no action relative to full resumption. The members of the Stock Exchange to-day contributed $1,364 for Shreveport and Memphis.

FRANCE.

THE REPUBLICANS CLEARED UP—BAZAINE'S TRIAL.

PARIS, October 10.—A meeting of the Republican members of the Assembly was held at the residence of Jules Simon last night. A hundred delegates were present.

The electoral scheme was adopted, and a committee composed of representatives of the three groups of the Left was appointed to draw up an official declaration in the name of the Republican party. Thiers and Gambetta support the action of the meeting, which also has the approval of many Conservative deputies. The Republicans are generally more hopeful.

The attendance of the spectators at the Bazaine Court-martial to-day was larger. Several interesting documents were read relating to the efforts to communicate with Metz, and the probability of the messengers employed reaching it, twenty of whom have been summoned as witnesses. The prosecution attaches great importance to the dispatch delivered on, it alleges, the 23d of August, announcing McMahon's movement towards the Meuse to join hands with the army of Metz.

Bazaine is charged with refusing to avail himself of balloon service to communicate with the interior.

The counsel for the defense will ask that the justificatory memoir published sometime ago by the accused be admitted as evidence.

MINERAL WEALTH OF GEORGIA.—Whilst in Atlanta the other day, we looked in upon the finely arranged and handsomely fitted up laboratory of Prof. Wm. J. Land, and were surprised to find so large a collection of specimens of valuable minerals from various parts of Georgia, most of which had been analyzed. New discoveries are almost daily adding to this collection, and an examination of his cabinet cannot fail to impress the visitor most favorably in regard to the mineral resources and wealth of our great State. Had Georgia long since followed the example of other States, and created a geological and cabinet, Prof. Land's talents applied as a geologist, her wealth and power would have been greatly augmented. Without State aid the work of development is now steadily going on, and slowly but surely adding to her resources.

Professor Land deserves much praise for aiding in this good work and we commend him as an accomplished and reliable chemist to those who have minerals to analyze.—Madison Home Journal.

ROUGHING IT.—A few evening since a Detroit chap was sparking a West-side girl who wore an Elizabethan ruff. Expecting his coming, she had dressed for the occasion, and her ruff, stiff as an unrestricted use of satin-starch gloss could make it, was of the most stunning character. The lover came at the orthodox time, and was ushered into the parlor, where the enchanting maiden and her father and mother were seated. He was cordially received, and the evening passed pleasantly, although the old folks sat up a good deal longer than the youngsters thought necessary. Finally they went to bed and the twain were left alone. After a certain amount of preliminary bashfulness, the maiden assented to her lover's request for a kiss. He essayed to take it, but was met at every point by bristling wall of starch and starch. He came up to her in front and was gouged in each eye. He fiddled up to her and with the right hand prong cut one of his ears half off. He attempted to reach the prize over her shoulder, and a chevaux de frise of lace tickled his nose till he was obliged to take a seat and sneeze. Then the maiden came to the rescue, and held down one side of the provoking ruff, and again the lover advanced. Just as he had all but reached her blooming cheek, the damsel lost her grip, and the razor-like decoration flew up with a force that took an "under bit out of his right ear." Then he got mad. Then she got mad. Then they both got mad, and an anticipated wedding has come to a premature end.

☞ An Ohio clergyman makes report that he once married a couple and the man said: "Be short, be short!" I said, "Yes, I can do it in three minutes." "That's right," he said. I saw that there was some little dissatisfaction on the part of the other half. I said, "You don't want to have it too short?" "No," she said, "a body don't want to get herself up so for nothing."

OFFICE OF SUPERINTENDENT OF AGENCIES, October 10, 1873.

This company is prepared to issue policies on the "stock plans," the premiums on which are from 20 to 25 per cent. less than on the mutual rates.

An opportunity is thus afforded to all who desire insurance, or who may wish, from any cause, to transfer their policies from other companies to place their risks in a reliable HOME INSTITUTION, at a less rate, notwithstanding increase of age, than original cost. The "Cotton States" has an available reserve of capital and deposits of $500 000, which is entirely independent of its business, and is not used therein—thus affording stronger guarantees than any company doing business in the State.

An Abbeville Boy.

We clip the following from the Abbeville (S. C.) Medium, and insert it into our columns with pleasure:

T. C. WILKINSON, Esq., a splendid printer and a genial fellow, is now foreman of THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION. Tandy was initiated into "the art preservative" in Abbeville, where many friends retain kindly remembrances of him. We are glad to know that his merits are appreciated in his adopted home.

THE GIRLS' SUPPER.—Quite a pleasant little festival occurred last night at Trinity Methodist Church. The entertainment consisted of a supper which was prepared by the ladies of the church and congregation, and sold for benevolent purposes. Our public responded to the invitation to be present with their accustomed liberality, and at an early hour in the evening the edifice was well filled with guests. Trinity church includes in its membership some of our prettiest young ladies, and they dispensed both their smiles and their supper on most satisfactory terms. The visitors all spent a most delightful evening, promenading, conversing, and partaking of the good things which had been so bountifully provided. We are glad that the supper proved so much of a success.

At Griffin.

Judge Brown's County Court is growing in popularity. It has accomplished much good for the city and county. The large number of vagabonds who were to be seen loaning round the street corners have disappeared, and parties who have been brought before his Court have been punished as the law directs. The Court has become a terror to evil doers and great good in the result.

THE CHANGE OF SCHEDULE.

The people are glad to learn of the change of schedule which is to take place on the Macon and Western Railroad on Sunday, in order that they may receive THE CONSTITUTION early in the morning so as to get the reliable news of the day.

BUSINESS

is improving and the merchants begin to look cheerful, as Col. Tom Burney did the other day when he was on his way to Atlanta with his beautiful young bride. Money is getting more plentiful, and is beginning to circulate around pretty freely. The sale of provisions is rather slim, but dry goods goes off in a hurry.

GRANGE CONVENTION

is in session here to-day. It is largely attended and will transact business of importance, of which you will be informed to-morrow.

FIFTH WARD DEMOCRATIC CLUB.—According to previous call a meeting of the Fifth Ward Democratic Club was held last night, President Goss in the chair. The Secretary, Mr. Holmes, being absent, Mr. T. C. Wilkinson was appointed Secretary pro tem.

The President explained the object of the meeting to be to take action on the mass meeting at the City Hall on Thursday night.

Mr. Findley moved that we, the Fifth Ward Democratic Club, rescind their action of the 29th of September in regard to a nomination on the 11th instant for Mayor and Aldermen in said ward. Carried unanimously.

Also, that we heartily concur in the majority report adopted by the mass meeting on last Thursday night at the City Hall.

There being no further business, on motion the meeting adjourned.

President Goss announced that he would appoint the necessary committees, and make the same known through the columns of the city papers.

A HUMAN BURNING.

HORRIBLE ACCIDENT.

A Young Lady Burned to Death on the Public Square.

(Washington (Wilkes county) Gazette.]

On last Wednesday this community was shocked by the most appalling and distressing accident that has ever occurred in this section. Miss Susan Golucke, daughter of Mr. Edmund Golucke, a beautiful and most estimable young lady, was burned most frightfully and fatally on the public square. The facts are as follows:

On Wednesday, about noon, Miss Susan went into the kitchen on her father's premises at the northwest corner of the square, for the purpose of preparing a cough syrup for one of the printers in the Gazette office who boards at Mr. Golucke's. While standing with her back to the stove her dress caught fire, and when her attention was called to the fact she rushed out of the building through the yard and into the square, screaming in agony and terror, while the flames rushed up over head and volumes of smoke rolled up into the air above. The sight was fearful and those who saw it can never forget the agonizing picture of the poor girl standing out in distinct outline on a ground work of flame as she rushed wildly and frantically through the crowd which rapidly flew to her relief. There were a considerable number near at hand when she entered the square, and every effort was made to save her. Men ran to her, some taking off coats, vainly trying to smother the flames, others attempting to tear her burning clothes from her body. But crazed by the pain and the terror, she tore on through the crowd, till she was finally caught and thrown on the sidewalk some fifty yards from her father's house, and the flames smothered by the coats of those around and by a bucket of water thrown over her by some one in the crowd. Her clothing by this time was burned almost completely off. She was taken up in almost pitiable condition, burned from head to foot, and carried to her home amidst the wails of her afflicted friends.

After the flames were extinguished, she became perfectly self-possessed and seemed more calm and collected than anyone else. All was done for her that friends could do. The best medical men in the town did all in their power to save her, but knew from the first, that her case was hopeless.

She was informed of her condition on Wednesday evening and told that death was inevitable. She bore the announcement with a fearless fortitude seldom witnessed. Rev. W. S. Bean, pastor of the Presbyterian Church in this place, was summoned to her bedside and administered consolation to her in her last moments. She spoke calmly of death and stated that she was not afraid to die.

She lingered till five o'clock yesterday, Thursday morning, and passed away quietly and without pain.

She was the only daughter of her parents. Her sudden and awful death has cast a gloom over our whole community and every one feels the deepest sympathy for her afflicted parents and friends in this, their hour of deepest grief.

COTTON.

A Blast at The Constitution's Cotton Articles.

ALLATOONA, GA., October 6, 1873.

Editors Constitution: With pleasure I add my God-speed to the enterprise of THE CONSTITUTION. And while it cannot be said to have attained perfection in dignity, style and arrangements, few journals, if any, have made such strides in approximation.

Having made this general, and, I think, truthful, remark, let me address myself to the subject that suggested this communication—the subject of your cotton articles—an important feature in your paper—important and interesting truly when done up impartially, leaning neither to the bulls nor to the bears.

Let us assume that, on the contrary, all the farmers belong to the former class, and the cotton buyers, merchants and money changers to the latter class. The latter class, however, may be bulls temporarily, when it suits their interest. All these parties, though often at war commercially, are mutually dependent on each other, mutually interested in a steady paying market price, it follows, necessarily, that extreme fluctuations work immediate injury to one party and ultimate injury to the other. And since these parties will war in the market, and since the bears have on their side the money, the commercial knowledge and the ropes generally, the bulls become the weaker party—need sympathy and a helping hand from the press—the press, a wonderful power in the world for weal or woe. Cotton articles, if leaning either to the right or to the left, should be in the interest of the weaker party. Will the last numbers of your cotton articles bear scrutiny in reference to the question of impartiality? When the author predicted a decline in cotton early in the present season; when that decline did come, and he insisted that it was legitimate; when he asserted that cotton would have gone down to 14 or 15 cents by the first of October, if there had been no money panic; when he asserted that nine ponce in Liverpool is only equal to 14 cents in Atlanta; when he accounted for short receipts in one week by the great storm of the 19th of September, and by the fever in Shreveport and Memphis for another; when he assumed (gratuitously certainly) that the farmers are willing to sell good cotton at 13 cents, what think you has been the effect produced in the feelings of the bulls and bears?

I am free to answer for the farmers, that the grating on the ears has been harsh—and as free to believe that a pleasant tinkling has been produced on the ears of the cotton buyers. That prediction, as he is an expert in prediction according to himself, it was bound to be fulfilled. However, the firmness and even advancing tendency of the Liverpool market, and the improvement in cotton everywhere recently, verily, to the unprejudiced in all classes, that this one prediction would have fallen to the ground without the opportune aid of the money panic. Nine pence in Liverpool. Only equal to fourteen cents in Atlanta! Can this be ciphered out?

My reckoning makes 9 pence sterling with exchange and the difference between gold and our currency nearly equal to 20 cents. If so, is not 6 cents a pound a wide margin for middle men? And where are the farmers to be found in this wide cotton belt, who are willing to sell good cotton at 13 cents? They can't be found in this part of the country, unless there may be some poor timid fellows panic stricken by the hue and cry that cotton is bound to run down to 10 to 13 cents. And why this hue and cry? Why is the key note found in your cotton articles? Why this solicitude for planters to rush in their cotton in hot haste? Is love for the true interests of the planters the motive power? If so, thank I, for one, cannot appreciate the friendly advice. Suppose all the planters were to follow this advice, would the consumers need it in such hot haste? Would there be money enough to buy it? Reason and experience dictate, in such a course, a cotton panic, immediate ruin to the cotton planters, and ultimate injury to everybody. It is a saving clause that some planters always hold back cotton. Indeed, while those in debt are morally bound to sell, they should esteem as benefactors all those who can, and will, hold back their cotton for the regular demand certain to follow. And in this crisis the merchants should meet the debtor portion on the half-way ground. Not on the extreme ground proposed by Mr. Tumlin. Much better to sacrifice, for a time, a part of their long profits to help out the farmers, whose profits in raising cotton are extremely short. Labor, provisions, interest on money, iron, dry goods, everything that a farmer uses in making his crop are entirely too high to justify low prices in cotton. Indeed, there is no legitimate cause for low prices now.

It is just as likely as not, that the world will need all the present crop. If the world need, in round numbers, 4,000,000 of American cotton in 1873, against 3,000,000 in 1872, is it not a reasonable deduction to assume that more than 4,000,000 may be used in 1874? It is not recorded yet that the present crop will exceed 4,000,000, even with the increased acreage. An extraordinary wet spring, with imperfect tillage, worms and rust, rarely, if ever, foreshadowed a great crop. But suppose we do make over 4,000,000, the increasing consumption will demand it. Again, suppose the buyers, merchants, and monied men with the press, cotton articles writers all, ring off to cry down the price of cotton, and really produce a cotton panic. And the buyers rip open the goose that laid the golden egg, in buying very cheap cotton, what would likely be the result? It is written in your cotton articles that Liverpool takes the bulk of our crop. Would not Liverpool become panicy too? Reap the golden harvest without sowing? And would not our buyers having sown to the wind reap the whirl-wind? The good of this country imperatively demands that all classes should have a good opinion of cotton, and cotton will lead us out of the present difficulties, if all parties will magnanimously work for general, as well as personal interest. A steady market is what we all need, and there need be fears, under this state of things in this country, that Liverpool will fail to take her full share at the money paying rates.

In conclusion, let me say, that your readers should feel indebted for the fund of real information in your cotton articles. This is one of the interesting features of enterprise in your journal. A judicious collection of statistics, accomplished facts in reference to cotton in all its positions, production, transportation and consumption, leaving everyone to do his own guessing, predicting and to draw his own deductions, could not be construed to lean either to the one party or to the other.

James L. Zachry vs. R. F. Hoge. Same disposition.

For defense Colonel N. J. Hammond.

George M. Hides vs. James Loyd, et al. Tr'espass. Affidavit dismissed.

Wm. C. Lawshe vs. J. H. McClintock. This was the case tried by consent before Judge R. H. Clark. The jury found for the defendant.

John A. Jones vs. F. M. Bunge. Claim. Trial with verdict for defendant.

J. F. Oran vs. C. Ables and T. M. Ware, claimant. Levy dismissed.

The case of William Solomon vs. W. T. Newman, trustee, &c. Illegality. was on trial to the hour of adjournment yesterday afternoon. It was argued by Hon. M. A. Candler, for plaintiffs, and by Messrs. Gartrell and Stephens for the defence. The jury found for the defence. Judge Hopkins gave notice that the criminal docket would not be taken up before next Monday two weeks.

The Grand and Petit Juries were discharged.

Court then adjourned to meet next Monday morning at half past eight o'clock. There will be no formal session of the court to-day. Judge Hopkins will be present at the court room to hear some motions that have been set down for argument, but no docket will be called. Besides the business noted above, the court rendered judgments for the plaintiffs in four civil cases by default, there being no defense filed under oath.

The Grand Jury, before their discharge yesterday after noon, returned a general presentment in which they alluded to the fact that they had not had time to give such attention to the county roads or bridges as they would like to have done, or to the books of the several county officers. That they would recommend future Grand Juries to be selected and sworn for the term, with the privilege of having one third of their number excused from duty by turn.

The presentment closed with an expression of the utmost confidence in Solicitor General Glenn, and his Honor Judge Hopkins, and a return of thanks to these gentlemen for the uniform courtesy and attention shown to their body. Judge Hopkins responded in a few appropriate remarks alluding to the importance of the duties the Grand Jury were called upon to discharge, the fidelity with which they had observed their trust, and thanking them for their expressions of confidence. They were then discharged.

The Justices' Courts.

A man by the name of Wylie was arrested yesterday at the instance of Harvey O'Shields, and brought before Justice Hammond for larceny. An examination into the evidence showed that there was very little ground, if any, upon which to base the charge, and the warrant was dismissed with costs.

The other Courts report nothing of interest.

The United States Court.

The District and Circuit Courts of the United States met yesterday morning at their usual hour, his honor Judge Erskine presiding.

The trial of the case of the Grover & Baker Sewing Machine Company vs. Davis & Davis and Rondeau & Co. was resumed. It was ably and exhaustively argued by Messrs. Arnold & Broyles for the plaintiffs, and by Messrs. Colyer, Mynatt & Collier for the defendants.

This case was pending when Court adjourned yesterday afternoon.

The United States vs. Joseph Owensby, Illicit distilling.

This case was to have been tried yesterday upon the conclusion of the Sewing Machine case. We have not learned whether it was taken up.

In the case of the United States vs William Bost & Co., illicit distilling, the Government permitted the defense to take a verdict of not guilty.

The United States vs. Columbus Dodd was called, and an order taken forfeiting the bond.

The United States Courts were in session yesterday to an unusually late hour.

The cases set for trial to day are:

United States vs. Jerry Elrod. Same vs Davis Heard. Revenue cases.

Also Shortridge & Bro. vs The Howah Manufacturing Company.

Station House Report.

There were six arrests only, made by the city police yesterday. They were all of the same hue—that is cheap whisky and disorderly conduct.

THE LULU COMBINATION.—This first class company as our readers will see from their advertisement, propose to exhibit here on Monday and Tuesday nights of next week at the Concordia Hall. For attractiveness, their entertainment cannot be excelled. Immense audiences, and the most favorable comments from the press have greeted them everywhere.

The show, as seen from the advertisement, will be novel to our city, and is sure to draw forth crowded houses. It is a matter of regret that the Opera House is not completed to afford them larger and better accommodations. As it is, they exhibit at Concordia Hall. Reserved seats can be had of Messrs. Philips & Crew. We advise our readers to secure their seats at once. The rush will be very great, and by delay the opportunity will be lost.

THE DOLLAR SAVINGS BANK.—We would call the careful attention of our readers to the advertisement of the Dollar Savings Bank which appears in this issue of THE CONSTITUTION. The management have determined to pay off their indebtedness and resume business at an early day, and they can do so. It is, however, important that those owing the institution should settle up at once. Any of our citizens wishing to deposite in this bank need not be in the least afraid in doing so. The bank is officered by men of well-known business tact and ingenuity and the interests of their depositors will be carefully looked after.

A Note From "Careless Writer."

LAGRANGE, October 10, 1873.

Editors Constitution: The LaGrange Reporter of this morning regards my letter to your paper of the 9th as "decidedly comical," in the statement that I had been informed there was not money enough in LaGrange to buy five bales of cotton. I was so informed, and I now say there was a little or no money in LaGrange to buy cotton with when I wrote to you. The few bales that were brought to town were not sold for the cash, as I am repeatedly told by reliable persons.

The merchants of LaGrange have the ability to command as much money as the same number of merchants are able to do anywhere in Georgia. The object of my statement was to show the effect of the money panic in that town. The statement was correct, or a card of the merchants in LaGrange misinformed me.

There was no attempt to make the impression that there was no other college in LaGrange save the Southern Female College. I referred to the proprietor of this institution as deserving great credit, in opposition to so many drawbacks, for having erected a handsome college edifice, and paid him a deserved compliment for his enterprise. That was all, and nothing more.

Some writers have a chronic disposition to castigate everybody that does not see as they do. I fear the Reporter is falling in to that habit. I have a creed at its censorship. What I wrote to THE CONSTITUTION is true. I would not write otherwise. All statements I made in that letter that I did not know personally, I properly qualified.

The Reporter has simply gone off half cocked this time without having time to draw a bead upon the object of the random firing.

CARELESS WRITER.

DEMOCRATIC VICTORY.—THE CONSTITUTION is rejoiced over the success of the efforts to harmonize the party. Instead of throwing fire-brands or goading to desperation, THE CONSTITUTION assayed to heal the differences existing, and congratulates the country upon the result, which unites all good Democrats, and enables the people to have their own way in the election of men to govern the city. Independentism and Radicalism are dead.

OUR MOTHERS, who were the best and tidiest housewives in the world—except our grandmothers!—took especial pride in the possession of rooms of theware that glistened like a polished mirror. Every article about their houses susceptible of polish, including the brass knocker, was regularly brightened up until it fairly glistened. With their primitive materials, such as Bath brick, emery, rotten stone, etc., it was a serious labor, albeit one of love. Now-a-days, however, their daughters use Sapolio, and in one hour can polish more articles and do it better than they could in a whole day. If you wish to excel your mothers in the brightness of your kitchen ware, use Sapolio.

The Chief Justiceship.

The President has signified his intention not to appoint a Chief Justice until Congress assembles and the State elections are over. The situation is thus stated: Senator Conkling wants Ward Hunt, but if the administration loses New York State, as seems very certain, it is not probable that any New York man will get the honor.

Pierrepont and Evarts are contestants for the place, and the President has talked over the fitness of the latter. He has been advised that Mr. Evarts would not keep the place if he got it, having a large family and wishing chiefly to obtain the recognition of an appointment without any fixed resolution of holding it for life. The opposition of Butler and the baser fry of politicians will not admit of Judge Hoar's appointment. In political circles Justice Miller is thought to have on the whole a fair chance just now, although the weight of belief in this direction points to Howes of Wisconsin.

☞ The mortgages executed by individuals, recorded in Ohio in the year 1871, amounted to $49,134,628, and the amount of mortgages released the same year was $24,639,837, showing an increase of mortgages in that State in one year, amounting to about twenty-five million dollars. In the same year railroad mortgages were given to secure the payment of the enormous sum of $316,-738,825.

In the year 1872 the individual mortgages were still further increased, and the railroad mortgages had been swelled to $500,000,060. What has taken place in Ohio has probably taken place in other States. As a people, we are heavily in debt, and instead of paying off our debts we increase them.

☞ Since the first day of January, 1796, a period of 77 years, New Orleans had suffered thirty-five epidemics from yellow fever. Not less than two or more than six epidemics took place in any period of the year. The number and severity of these visitations has greatly diminished since 1860—in fact it is denied that any actual epidemic has occurred in that time.

☞ If, as predicted by competent judges, the cotton crop of the South should reach four million bales and sell at only fifteen cents—putting the bale down at four hundred fifty pounds, or $3 50 per bale—the proceeds would not be less than two hundred and ninety million dollars, or far more than the united capital of all the National Banks

New Life for the Languid.—Perfect health is vouchsafed to few. Probably ninety people out of every hundred who call themselves healthy have their "turns" of languor, exhaustion, deprepression of spirits and bodily pain. At these times a wine-glassful of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is as refreshing as "the shadow of a rock in a weary land." It invigorates and rests the system and cheers the mind. The effect of the bitters in cases of nervous debility, produced either by undue physical exertion, over-study, intense anxiety, or any other cause, is wonderfully reviving and invigorating. In fact, this healthful vegetable restorative possesses medicinal properties which entitle it to the rank of an article of prime necessity, and it should be kept on hand in every dwelling, and promptly taken as a remedy for all the milder ailments as well as for more serious complaints.

oct7-deod1w&w1t

Clergymen, Bankers, Bookkeepers, Editors and all others that lead sedentary lives will find much relief from the frequent Headaches, Nervousness and Constipation engendered from want of exercise by taking Simmons' Liver Regulator. It is a harmless vegetable compound; it can do no injury; and numbers who have tried it will confidently assert that it is the best remedy that can be used. oct7-deod1w&w1t

This Concentrated Vegetable Specific is a true Purifier of the Blood. It thoroughly neutralizes and eliminates from the system the specific virus which causes such a long list of human suffering.

In every form of scrofulous, mercurial and constitutional blood complaints it stands without compeer, rapidly curing ulcers, pustules, carbuncles, scald head, salt rheum, and the 88 different varieties of skin affections. It is a positive curative for scrofula, and the deadly enemy of mercury, lead and arsenic, quickly eliminates them from the system. The Fluid Extract of Queens delight, prepared by Dr. J. S. Pemberton, has made the most wonderful and astonishing cures. Its purifying, vivifying and tonic properties exercise the quickest and most powerful effects in restoring health. It is harmless to the most delicate, and can never be used amiss. It is the true beautifier of the complexion. If you want pure rich blood, clear skin and beautiful complexion, use the Compound Extract of Stillingia or Queens Delight. Read our treatise on diseases of the blood. The genuine has the signature of the proprietor upon each label.

Advice for Everybody that Costs Nobody Anything.—Lotion and cosmetics make a superficial coating on the skin, give an artificial color easily seen, but are wholly destructive of the color, texture and pliability of the skin itself. Wrinkled, haggard and prematurely old looking, exactly describe the appearance of those who habitually "paint their faces." If you would have the clear, transparent, healthy and soft tinted complexion which nature gives, free from pimples, tan, freckles, or all other disfigurements, use Hand Sapolio, the most effective and fragrant toilet soap ever manufactured. Sold by all dealers at 10 and 15 cents a cake. oct8—d1w&w1t

Bachelors' Hair Dye.—This superb Hair Dye is the best in the world—perfectly harmless, reliable and instantaneous; no disappointment; no ridiculous tints or disagreeable odor. The genuine Wm. A. Batchelor's Hair Dye produces immediately a splendid black or natural brown, leaves the hair clean, soft, beautiful; does not contain a particle of lead or any injurious compound. Sold by all druggists. Factory, 16 Bond Street, oct8—dly New York.

Boerhave's Mandrake Pills.—These pills are composed exclusively of vegetable ingredients, and although they actively supersede the use of mercury, do not leave any of its injurious effects. They act directly upon the liver, and are a valuable remedy in all cases of derangement resulting from a disordered state of that organ, Liver Complaint, Bilious Disorders, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Typhoid Fevers, etc., etc., all succumb to the free use of Schenck's Mandrake Pills. DR. TUTTS VEGETABLE LIVER PILLS.

THE ONLY KNOWN MEDICINE,

THAT AT THE SAME TIME

PURGES, PURIFIES AND STRENGTHENS THE SYSTEM.

Dr. Tutt's Pills are composed of many ingredients. Prominent among them are Sarsaparilla and Wild Cherry, so united as to act together; the one, through its admixture with other substances, purifying and purging; while the other is strengthening the system. Thus these Pills are at the same time a tonic and a cathartic, a desideratum long sought for by medical men, but never before discovered. In other words, they do the work of two medicines and do it much better than any two we know of, for they remove nothing from the system but impurities, so that while they purge they also strengthen and hence they cause no debility and are followed by no reaction.

Dr. Tutt's Pills have a wonderful influence on the blood. They not only purify without weakening it, but they remove all noxious particles from the chyle before it is converted into fluid, and thus makes impure blood an utter impossibility. As there is no debilitation, so there is no nausea or sickness attending the operation of this most excellent medicine, which never strains or tortures the digestive organs, but causes them to work in a perfectly natural manner; hence persons taking them do not become pale and emaciated, but on the contrary, while all impurities are being removed, the combined action of the Sarsaparilla and Wild Cherry purifies and invigorates the body, and a robust state of health is the result of their united action. Price 25 cents a box. Sold by all druggists. Depot 43 Courtland street, New York.
